Friends of Seedtime,

Why didn't they tell me this before?

We finally got to complete our long format face-to-face bible study last week after many on-again off-again months. Then Frantz, who worked tirelessly to make it happen, was asked by one lady in class, "why didn't my church tell me this before?"

I don't know. But God has allowed us this day, so let us make good use of it.

After the 3 day study was over some said they'd like to teach others what they learned.

Hey, did you know that our Bible studies are simply that... bible studies. Nothing fancy. No food or drinks. Only what water source is common to the host church. No gift bags or freebies.

Instead of losing students who consider a 15 hour bible study to be a "drudgery" we ended with 11 students after beginning with 9.

When the content is worth it, some students call others to come join the study.

And when Frantz ended the Bible study, he, like usual, asked if anyone wanted a refund of their class fee ($1.53). Everyone was satisfied. No one requested a refund. It's been like this for over 15 years.

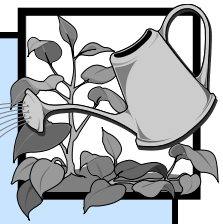

Seedtime plants the Word of God in the people of Haiti. Your support is a part of how that happens.

Can you be like our Haitian students, who, when the content is good they call friends to join? You who receive our ministry updates could call your family or friends to join us in support of this discipleship work.

We've never been close to 100% support, so "tent making" has been the rule for Seedtime since the beginning. Maybe you know someone you'd like to call to be a part of Seedtime support.

Thank you for walking with Seedtime and Harvest!
